Parashat Devarim

Some of Deuteronomy's passages, ranging from the Decalogue to setting aside cities of refuge, duplicate contents found elsewhere in the Torah. But 70 of the approximately 100 laws in Deuteronomy are not found in the earlier books. These laws deal mostly with arrangements for living in the Land and with the new emphasis on a central sanctuary to be designated by God. Moses is telling the Israelites things they will need to know when they settle the Land, things they had no need to know before.
